THE VALUE OF A PRE-TRIP INSPECTION

THOSE SERVING	4

Many years ago when I drove 18 different companies, we were required to pre-trip our rigs before leaving the terminal. It involved walking around the rig, inspecting the lights on the trailer, the air hose connections, the brake systems, fenders, mud flaps, tire pressures, and the tightness of each lug nut. Also, for the tanker trailers every valve and hatch was to be inspected. The proper placards were to be displayed and all the trailer documentation were to be in order. The tractor also had to be inspected and this included the fifth wheel, the drive wheels, the steering axles, lights, horn, brakes, air lines, coolant and lubrication systems and probably a few more things that I've forgotten after so many years. In order to be thorough and safe, we had a pre-trip check off list. Everything was supposed to be checked off and then each driver had to sign the form, indicating that he had taken personal responsibility in inspecting his rig before leaving the terminal.

Rookie drivers took two to three times longer than experienced drivers. In part, this was due to inexperience and unfamiliarity. In time, the ability to discern between genuine safety hazards and cosmetic issues made pre-tripping a rig a less time consuming part of the day. However, it was also true that sometimes seasoned drivers cut corners. Some did their pre-trip sitting in the air conditioned cab just filling out the form and signing the paperwork. We were paid by the load and by the amount of miles we hauled each load. We didn't earn a dime sitting on the yard. Every minute spent pre-tripping was a minute that we weren't getting paid for. I've seen drivers leave the yard, having signed off on the safety of a rig, and drove off with a flat tire on the inside dual. (That usually cost a driver three days without pay for a first offense and permanent retirement for a 2nd offense - if they got caught). Drivers complained about how long it took and how the whole thing should be the responsibility of the mechanics. Mechanics complained about the casual manner some drivers adopted when pre-tripping and how it led to more costly and time consuming repairs down the road.

In time, the professional truck drivers stood out. They weren't the first ones to leave the terminal because they took their time and literally inspected everything listed on the pre-trip forms. Nor were they the last to leave the terminal. They kept their rigs up and in good working order so that they had fewer mechanical breakdowns and spent less down time waiting for the mechanics to repair something that could have been avoided with routine inspections. Once on the road, they seldom had to stop because something failed.

We're on a journey towards an eternal destiny. The Lord's desire is that we be with Him in glory. Paul writes, "For God has not destined us for wrath, but for obtaining salvation through our Lord Jesus Christ" (1 Thess. 5:9). To ensure that we obtain that salvation, the Lord has given us a pre-trip check off list. Notice some of the things on that list as recorded in 1 Thessalonians 5.

5:11 - encourage one another and build up one another. Help one another to make the trip successfully.

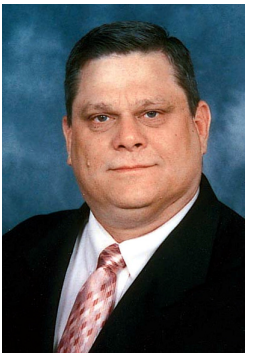

5:12,13 - appreciate those who diligently labor among you, have charge over you in the Lord and give you instruction, esteem them very highly in love because of their work. Live in peace with one another.

5:14 - admonish the unruly, encourage the faint-hearted, help the weak, be patient with every-one.

YOUTH EVENTS

JR. & SR. HIGH

Bible Class 2 Yr Old—8th Grade

Sunday morning's Bible class lesson will be "Paul's Conversion" (Acts 9: 1-31) Wednesday evening's Bible class lesson will be "Aeneas Healed; Dorcas Raised" (Acts 9: 32-43).

- 5:15 – see that no one repays another with evil for evil, seek after that which is good for one another, for all people.
- 5:16 – rejoice always
- 5:17 – pray always
- 5:18 – give thanks always
- 5:19 – don't quench the Spirit
- 5:20,21 – don't despise prophetic utterances, but examine everything and cling to what is good
- 5:22 – abstain from every form of evil.

that incorporated these things. Think of all that would never be – and all that could be – if these things were the things that we looked for in ourselves every day. Examining ourselves in these matters will ensure that we complete our journey with success. "Now may the God of peace Himself sanctify you entirely; and may your spirit and soul and body be preserved complete, without blame at the coming of our Lord Jesus Christ" (5:23).

Imagine what a difference would be made if every Christian started every day with a self-inspection
